Ragging

Sri Venkateswara College of Nursing has always taken adequate measures for prevention and control of ragging every year. However, due to the ugly incidences of ragging in other colleges in the rest of the country appearing in the newspapers and media there is anxiety and fear among the freshers and their family members. The college would like to alleviate this fear and anxiety and provide a conducive environment for learning during the initial period of the course. Following the Hon'ble Supreme Court's direction we aim to make Sri Venkateswara College of Nursing a ragging free campus. Students are expected to give an undertaking at the time of admission that they will not indulge in ragging in any form.

Care of Equipment and Instruments

Students shall look after the equipment and instruments provided by the college with utmost care. Equipment damaged through careless handling will be charged to the student's account. Students are directed to pay for damaged instruments, equipment and college property as and when advised by the college authorities. Such payment must be made and dues cleared before requesting for a "NO dues" certificate while appearing for University examinations.
