- Pessimism
- Poor sleep
- Appetite
- Feeling helpless
- Guilty
- Hopeless, with a gradual reduction in work output

Outcome of the Programme:-

You feel yourself getting caught up in fear of what might happen, try to shift your focus to things you can control. For example, you can't control how severe the coronavirus outbreak is in your city or town, but you can take steps to reduce your own personal risk. Take up a relaxation practice. When stressors throw your nervous system out of balance, relaxation techniques such as deep breathing, meditation, and yoga can bring you back into a state of equilibrium. Regular practice delivers the greatest benefits, so see if you can set aside even a little time every day.

Objective of the Programme:-

Teaching and learning approaches as theoretical concepts that describe on a meta-level how learning should be facilitated. The Approaches to Learning domain focuses on how children learn. It refers to the skills and behaviours that children use to engage in learning. It incorporates emotional, behavioural, and cognitive self-regulation as well as initiative, curiosity, and creativity. Perhaps the most simple way of describing 'learning styles' is to say that they are different methods of learning or understanding new information, the way a person takes in, understand, expresses and remembers information.

Objective of the Programme:-

The primary purpose of theory in nursing is to improve practice by positively influencing the health and quality of life of patients. Nursing theories are also developed to define and describe nursing care, guide nursing practice, and provide a basis for clinical decision-making. Nursing theory helps distinguish nursing as a separate discipline from medicine and related sciences, and assists nurses in understanding their patients and their needs. The theory provides different templates to help nurses provide care that respects patients and improves outcomes.

- Self-care theory.
- Transcultural nursing theory

Outcome of the Programme:-

This nursing model holds that people want to take care of themselves, and that those in the nursing profession can enhance patient care by allowing the patient to do as much of their own self-care as they are capable. Nursing theory helps distinguish nursing as a separate discipline from medicine and related sciences, and assists nurses in understanding their patients and their needs. The theory provides different templates to help nurses provide care that respects patients and improves outcomes.
