Outcome of the Programme

Map where in the curriculum students have the opportunity to work toward the stated outcomes. Develop a method(s) of discovering if students have met the learning outcomes in the appropriate places in the curriculum. directly relate to the learning intentions or particular learning outcome. are explicit about what learners are required to do. are time efficient and manageable. include clear and explicit assessment criteria. provide challenge for the full range of learners being assessed. Clear, shared, implementable goals are the cornerstone for assessment that is focused and useful. Assessment requires attention to outcomes but also and equally to the experiences that lead to those outcomes. Information about outcomes is of high importance; where students "end up" matters greatly.

Objective of the Programme:-

A lesson plan is the instructor's road map of what students need to learn and how it will be done effectively during the class time. Lesson planning is the activity which the teacher performs before the actual lesson takes place. A lesson objective can be one of the most important components of a lesson plan. Objectives define what students are going to learn during the lesson and explain how the learning is going to be assessed. It outlines what students will learn during each class period, how the lesson will be taught and how student progress will be measured.

Topics covered

- Detailed lesson plan. A detailed plan covers everything and gets teachers fully prepared for the lesson ahead.
- Semi detailed lesson plan.
- Understanding by design (UbD)
- Objectives.
- Procedure.
- Evaluation

Outcome of the Programme

A lesson plan is a detailed description of the instructional strategies and learning activities to be performed during the teaching/learning process. Lesson planning is important because it helps teachers to make sure that the everyday activities that go on in their classrooms are providing learners with a good level of lasting progress toward what they want to achieve outlined in their sequence, as well as their individual education plans. An ideal lesson plan should contain at least four essential parts: teaching objectives, warming up activity, techniques and procedures that can be used to achieve the teaching objectives, and assessment to check whether the followed techniques and procedures have achieved the teaching objectives.

PROGRAMME REPORT

Name of the programme : A One Week Faculty Development Programme on
"Lesson Planning"

Dates : 10-07-2017 to 15-07-2017

Details of Resource Person:

Name : Ms.D.Anusha Reddy
Designation : Assoc.Professor
Organization : Sri Venkateswara College of Pharmacy
Ph. No : 7670875635
Mail. Id : anushareddy@svcop.in

Objective of the Programme:

A lesson plan is the instructor's road map of what students need to learn and how it will be done effectively during the class time. Lesson planning is the activity which the teacher performs before the actual lesson takes place. A lesson objective can be one of the most important components of a lesson plan. Objectives define what students are going to learn during the lesson and explain how the learning is going to be assessed. It outlines what students will learn during each class period, how the lesson will be taught and how student progress will be measured.

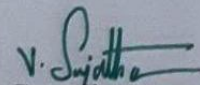

Topics covered:

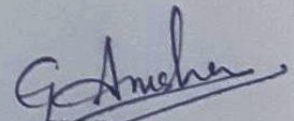

- Detailed lesson plan. A detailed plan covers everything and gets teachers fully prepared for the lesson ahead.
- Semi detailed lesson plan.
- Understanding by design (UbD)
- Objectives.
- Procedure.
- Evaluation

Outcome of the Programme:

A lesson plan is a detailed description of the instructional strategies and learning activities to be performed during the teaching/learning process. Lesson planning is important because it helps teachers to make sure that the everyday activities that go on in their classrooms are providing learners with a good level of lasting progress toward what they want to achieve outlined in their sequence, as well as their individual education plans. An ideal lesson plan should contain at least four essential parts: teaching objectives, warming up activity, techniques and procedures that can be used to achieve the teaching objectives, and assessment to check whether the followed techniques and procedures have achieved the teaching objectives.

A manuscript is a research work that a researcher writes and submit to journal publications. Manuscripts are reviewed by peer reviewers assigned by journal editors to maintain the quality of the publication. The handwritten manuscripts were very fragile highly expensive, difficult to handle and could not be carried around easily. Manuscript presentations are the word-for-word iteration of a written message. In a manuscript presentation, the speaker maintains their attention on the printed page except when using visual aids. The advantage of reading from a manuscript is the exact repetition of original words.
